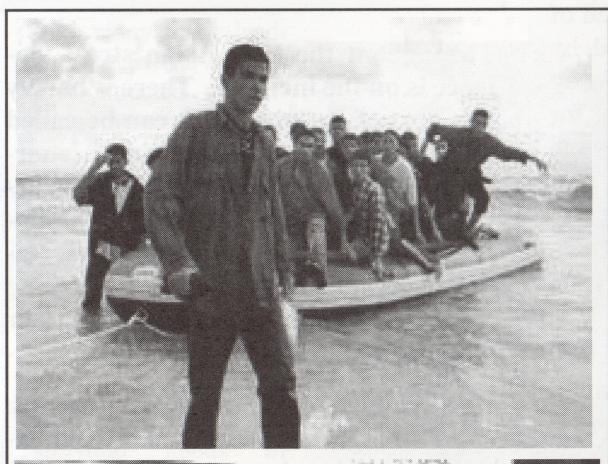
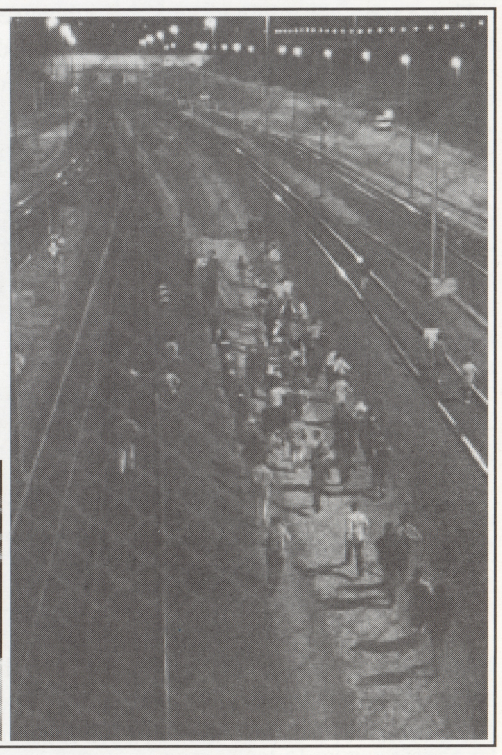
ASYLUM SEEKERS TO COME FOREVER?





Going against all advice, the Deputy Prime Minister has astounded everyone by pressing ahead with the Bicester asylum seeker centre.

During the 2001 general election, an irate protester remonstrates with John Prescott. Forty million other angry voters missed their opportunity.

John Prescott's office released a report on this issue which includes one very revealing paragraph, numbered 14.7.

It reads "I consider that it is reasonable to assume that the need to accommodate asylum seekers in this country is going to continue for many years ahead. I do not, therefore, see anything inherently wrong about approving an Accommodation Centre that would be permanent".

The National Front together with locals will fight this decision with every means at our disposal.

Recent polls have shown that 85% of the indigenous British public want to see an end to the queue of asylum seekers and the doors to the UK "firmly shut and bolted".

The government claims that countries such as India and Pakistan are "unstable" creating for Parliament an excuse to allow millions more third-world misfits to enter our country.

The excuse obviously has no validity but, through public apathy, parliament has been allowed to get away with swamping us with undesirables from all over the world.

Clearly our nation's first priority must be to get the treacherous politicians out of power.

FORGET SADDAM HUSSEIN, PARLIAMENT IS OUR ENEMY

Britain's current great enemy, we are told, is one time friend of America Saddam Hussein. Before that it was Osama Bin Laden, Colonel Gaddafi and Idi Amin, but like last year's pop charts the old bogey men are soon forgotten.

On his own, (Lord) David Sainsbury has done more damage to the British nation than Saddam Hussein ever could. It is ironic that our government will immorally spend billions of taxpayers' money attacking, destroying and reconstructing Iraq in an image to the liking of Washington, while many British shoppers will naively and foolishly patronise Sainsbury stores.

The scare stories of a terrible threat from far away are a means to divert our gaze from the real enemy right under our nose.

In 1945 when the British public were celebrating victory and the end of the war in Europe, little did they realise that they were facing a new enemy far more fearsome and destructive.

This foe would not identify himself by wearing a uniform, he had become the enemy within. Within fifty years he has brought about a full-scale invasion of our country. England, we are told, no longer exists and we must not consider ourselves English. Such is the impertinence of the usurpers of parliamentary power. The indigenous British, by voting for our enemies, have reduced themselves to mere spectators of their own downfall with no political say.

At a very high cost we fought to remain apart from Nationalist Europe. Today the enemy is cunningly trying to get us to join a tyrannical socialist Europe. By passing political power from Westminster to their Communist allies in the EU, the enemy who does not wear a uniform is hoping to overcome national resistance.

Multi-racialism has been introduced as a means to destroy national cohesion, which is why we should have none of it. For the reverse, reason our enemies' do their utmost to create race-mixing and multi-racial activity.

Our secret enemy has not only brought the immigrants into our country but also created the Race Laws. This dreadful new legislation has deemed it a criminal offence to complain about either the foreigners or those who have enticed them here.

Without our consent, millions of aliens have been given unwarranted British citizenship. The enemy within constantly sides with the foreigners in a bid to defeat us.

The immigration trickle has turned to a flood as parliamentarians try to get us outnumbered in our own country. Similarly, the EU, which the vast majority of Europeans want no part of, intends to bring in laws which will make it a criminal offence to oppose the EU or anything its corrupt ruling body does.

By not wearing a uniform, or pointing a rifle, and by pretending to be our friend, the "enemy within" tactics are proving, so far, to be the most destructive means of warfare yet devised.

We only need to unite and say NO to these people - to stop voting Labour, Liberal and Conservative - and we can sweep them away and return to a proper social order, sanity and self-governance.

BRITAIN FIRST

OLD PARTIES CREATE RACIAL DIVISIONS

Liaqat Ali, a Pakistani asylum seeker, who does not speak English, won a council seat for the Liberal Democrats in Manchester. He now claims that he needs an Urdu translator, at a cost of £20-an-hour to be able to do the job.

Those who complained have been accused of racism. This is the standard abuse used by Satanic filth (politically-correct) to get away with swamping Britain with non-whites for decades. However, the hardest critic on the spot was one Sajjed Hussain who said "it is ridiculous, he is not able to do his job because he can't read, write or speak English. He is not a citizen of this country and I can't believe he was elected".

Liaqat Ali's shameful election win has brought to light yet another part of Britain where half of the inhabitants are foreign.

The Liberal Democrats selected as candidate a man who clearly had no right to be in Britain. Ali was elected by Muslims on purely Muslim issues. Those who voted for him would have been mainly Muslims and Communists. He would have gained no support from the English. Clearly it is the Labour, Liberal and Conservative Parties who are being divisive, a charge they always level at the National Front.

We would like to point out that had Britain remained an all-white Christian country, which was our wish; there would be no other nations or races to be divisive with here amongst us.

BICESTER HAS TO FACE UP TO ITS NEW IMMIGRANT PROBLEM

Throughout the U K Asian street violence is on the increase. There is hardly any part of Britain which can be called safe. Wales is suffering from an enormous alien invasion that is no doubt being encouraged by the traditional Labour supporters in the main towns. National Front organisers are working hard to rally the Welsh to defend their homeland and protect their jobs.

Bicester in Oxfordshire has been hit by a spate of vicious, racially-motivated attacks on whites by Asians. In mid-July Oxford police carried out their biggest-ever dawn raid, when over a hundred officers visited the homes of Asian suspects. This action was taken after a series of violent robberies and attacks were made on whites in Oxford during a six-week period.

The National Front contested a council election in Bicester earlier this year,

where our candidate Jim Starkey received a reasonable vote. However the electorate's big mistake was returning Labour and Conservative candidates. By doing so the government came to the conclusion that the people of Bicester had given their approval to Labour's asylum seeker policy and would meekly suffer whatever new problems were created. New Labour seeing insufficient opposition have now decided to put the asylum centre in the Oxfordshire town.

Had Jim Starkey been elected, the Labour Party, afraid of losing control in the area, would probably have decided against housing 750 wayward young foreigners there.

While working on the election we were struck by the quiet and cleanliness of the area. There were no graffiti or dumped cars, no litter or unnecessary noise. Houses were generally in pristine condition, with neat trim, well-kept gardens. This is how England was 30 years ago.

If the residents of Bicester think it will stay this way if they keep voting Labour and Conservative, they had better think again. Bicester is a town that clearly does not have its share of immigrant drug-dealers, pimps, criminals and other alien low-life, we can be sure that the politicians currently in office will soon be accepting and housing hundreds of undesirables at the request of Parliament.

LUTON, A TOWN CAPTURED BY ASIANS WITHOUT A SHOT BEING FIRED

There is a massive Asian population in Luton. This foreign invasion of our land has been brought about by groups of hostile aliens who our own people foolishly voted into positions of authority.

James Sinclair, a 31-year-old forklift truck driver, was going through a difficult time. He is living in a mobile home with his girlfriend who has cancer. James is fully aware that because he is English the authorities do not give him the help and support he would receive if he were a foreigner. Like many, he is fed up with being treated like an unwanted second-class citizen in his own country.

Islamic enemies of the British call upon their fellow countrymen to kill us!

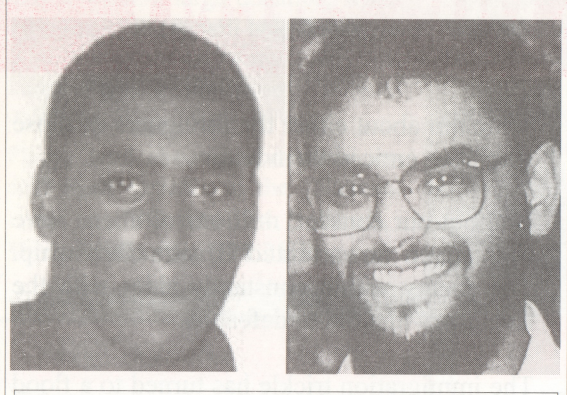
Islamic extremists had been out on the streets of Luton calling for a Jihad (holy war) against the English. James was rightly furious that foreigners could be allowed to get away with inciting hatred and murder against us in our own country. In a rage, the British patriot decided to do the same to them. He produced leaflets on his computer urging people to kill Muslims and asylum seekers which he distributed outside the Arndale shopping centre. Of course the only difference between the Muslim calls for a Jihad and James Sinclair's one- man, one-day stand was that the Muslims are serious. Needless to say, it was the Englishman who was prosecuted. At Peterborough Crown Court James was sentenced to 82 days in prison for religious-aggravated harassment.

The reason for the disparity in sentencing between Britons and foreigners is that we have lost control. No longer is Britain run by Christians. Anyone attempting to save the British race or nation now falls victim to alien laws which were introduced for no other reason but to bring about our national genocide. The Attorney General, Lord Goldsmith (a Jew), said recently that he is going to have a BLITZ on racial and religious hate crimes. Perpetrators will not get away with threatening, violent or abusive behaviour. This so-called clamping-down will of course only apply to whites. In post-1984 Britain it is our biased accusers who decide the intent behind so-called racist remarks and not the person who made them. This is a completely absurd situation, for only the person who made the statement knows what he intended to convey by his utterances.

These alien race inquisitions must be brought to an abrupt end.

WE MUST NOT UNDERMINE BRITISH CITIZENSHIP

Politicians and the press have brazenly described these two suspected Al Qaeda extremists as British.



Feroz Abbasi and Moazzam Begg detained by the Americans in Guantanamo Bay.

They clearly are not our fellow countrymen and are not wanted here. We have allowed our once peaceful Christian country to be turned into a sick, depraved, divided and violent hell-hole. This transformation has been brought about by pushy liberals and their communist allies.

While talking about peace and understanding they have used Mafia style tactics to frighten the British public into accepting what they call a "multi racial society". This has been a euphemism for the surrender of our country. Many Britons are so terrified of the government they have elected, that they are afraid to speak their mind.

Surely we should vote these tyrants out of office while we still have the chance.

2554 NF Votes and our deposit returned in the North Tyneside Mayoral Election

ROBERT BATTEN

OUR CANDIDATE IN THE 12.06.03 NORTH TYNESIDE MAYORAL ELECTION.

A very good result polling 2554 votes, 6% of the total and slaughtering the Socialist Alliance tally of only 400. Although we finished 4th behind the 3 main parties with the Conservatives winning, it was enough to send shock waves right across Tyneside. We also polled the highest number of second choice votes, by our counting agents observations around 50% ticked NF. The result certainly ruffled a few feathers with the media and other parties who had written us off as no hopers, as right minded people would not vote for us. They can now rest assured that half of Tyneside is right minded and are sick to the back teeth of asylum seekers and immigrants.

This is clearly a sign that NF are on the rise again as we prepare for the 2004 local elections.

BRITONS SUFFER FROM ALIEN-MADE LAWS

Pensioner Lydia Perry (above) was informed by her Indian doctor that he had been instructed by local health officials to strike her off as a patient at the surgery she had attended all her life. Lydia, along with 32 other English patients, had been banished from the surgery in order to accommodate gangs of asylum seekers who had recently been placed in the area.

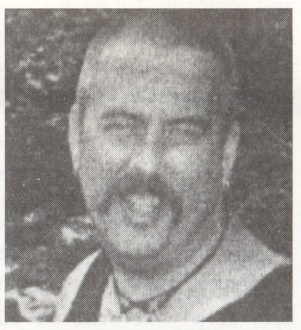
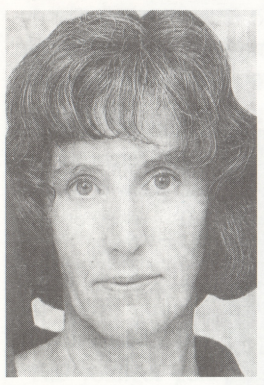
Newlyweds Andrew and Laura Morris (left) were returning from their honeymoon when they were devastated by a decision taken by immigration officials to refuse Laura right of re-entry to Britain. Laura, an Australian of British decent, had lived in Britain for more than two years. She married Andrew, a Yorkshireman, in England before flying to Australia for their honeymoon.

How come true Brits are denied right of residence in the UK, while countless black and Asian illegal immigrants carry out the two-hour marriage of convenience scam every day and the government accepts these fraudsters as bona fide? The latest figures available are for 2001 and they reveal that 27,000 illegal immigrants that year were granted the right to live in Britain through marriage.



Jon Riser (right) came to England in 1977 when his English mother divorced her American husband. He went back to America for a while, then returned to England to marry an English girl, Karen Jenkins. Jon flew in for the wedding but was refused right of entry and put on the next plane back to America. A week after he was sent back he shot himself. He was found dead with a note beside him which said, " This is my wedding day."



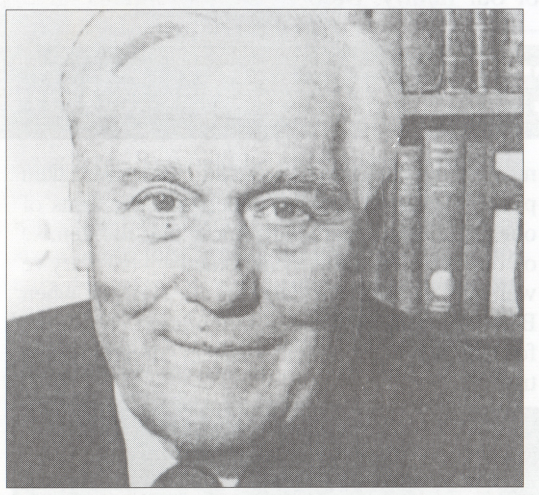
Anne Markie, (left) a New Zealander of British descent, was married to an Englishman for 31 years. She was told by immigration officials that she would have to leave Britain. This happened during the same week that an amnesty was given to 55,000 non-white illegal immigrants.

Mary Martin (right) has ten grandchildren; she has lived in Britain since she was two years old. Mary was born in America where her mother had married an American airman. The marriage did not last, and mother and daughter returned to England.

Mrs Martin had a deportation threat served on her by the Home Office. For 17 months the Home Office refused to acknowledge her status. Treated worse than any illegal immigrant she was told that she had a week to leave the country. In abject terror she thought about going into hiding. It was only when her story was published in the News of the World that the Home Office backed down.

Willa-Jane Douglas (left) is of true British upper class-stock, the kind who made Britain great, long before the families of Eastern European refugees Straw, Levy, Sainsbury and Brittan illegally entered Britain. Her grandfather was knighted for services to this country. Willa-Jane was born in Malaya, where her father was serving as an officer of Her Majesty's Colonial Service. Although Mrs Douglas is a true Briton and is married to an Englishman, she has been told by the skunks at the Home Office that she will not get a British passport, and is not entitled to call herself British.

Lieutenant Colonel George Richey, like his father and grandfather, enlisted into the army out of a sense of duty and patriotism. Of course patriotism is repugnant to New Labour which is probably why the Home Office has told him that they are not prepared to classify him as British.



George Richey (above) is currently Mayor of Shrewsbury, he was born on the island of Mauritius, a former British colony, but only spent the first six months of his life there. Although his parents have had British passports, and he has spent most of his 72 years living in Britain, "officials" claim that he does not qualify as a national, even though he previously had a British passport and is quite obviously British.

Duncan Fletcher, (right) England's cricket coach hero, has British parents, as well as all-British grandparents, but he has been refused a British passport. This occurred at the time of the passports-for-cash scandal, where Peter Mandelson and Jack Straw issued passports to the wealthy Indian brothers, Srichand and Gopichand Hinduja in return for donations.

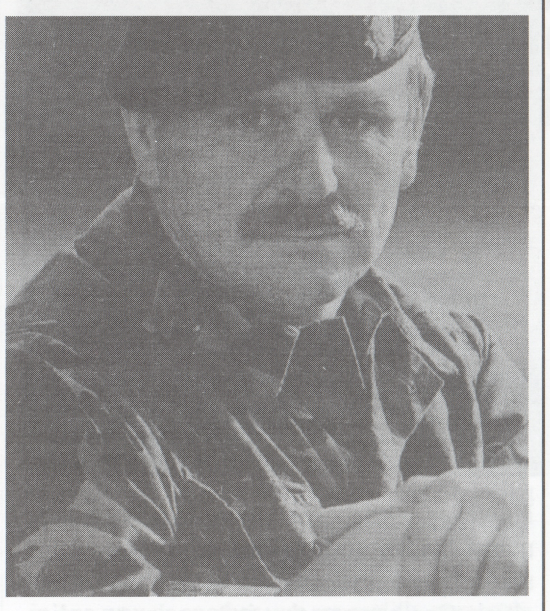
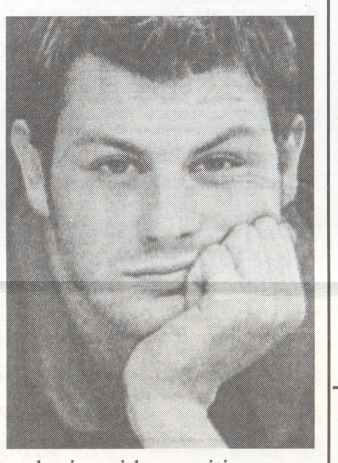
Peter Hain was a left-wing anti-apartheid campaigner who did much to overthrow white rule in South Africa and consequently brought about the demise of a once-great country. For this, and the encouragement that he gave to black African terrorists, Hain should have been denied entry to the UK and put on the first plane back to South Africa.

As a key member of the anti-British New Labour regime, Hain, acting like a dictator, is trying to tie Britain into the EU. He has also been seriously undermining Britain's claim to Gibraltar.

Since coming to Britain, this undesirable alien has been engaged in the same kind of leftwing activity, which helped cause the downfall of whites in South Africa. Communists had enticed large numbers of blacks into this former British colony from neighbouring countries. Once there, they where whipped into a frenzy of hatred and directed on a course of crime, murder and violence against the whites. This was all done under the guise of civil rights, equality and anti-apartheid. We can see the same situation here in Britain being created by the same people.



Clive Knight, who is 46, came from Rhodesia when he was four. Married to An English girl for 25 years, he has five children. Clive served in the British Army for five years, spending most of his service time in Northern Ireland. Since leaving the Army Mr Knight served as a reservist in the territorial Army, which has resulted in him being called up for duty in Iraq. Clive is a Briton of whom we can all feel proud. However, our anti-British alien-controlled Parliament think otherwise. Clive has been refused a British passport by the Home Office. This soldier has been used to fight as a Briton, for Bush's and Blair's illegal assault and plunder of Iraq. However, he will not be issued with a British passport to establish his claim to citizenship, or to allow him go on holiday with his family.



Leon Smith (right) is a 26-year-old truck driver who came to Britain from South Africa at the age of six. Had he been black he would have had no problem in getting a British passport. However Leon who has a perfect claim to be considered British, has been told by the Home Office that he is neither a citizen nor a recognised resident and must return to South Africa within 28 days or be forcibly removed. Compare this act of anti-white state terrorism against one of our own, to the liberal approach to the deportation of hook-handed, Moslem rabble-rouser, Abu Hamza. The Home Office declared that due to his so-called "rights" it could take up to ten years to deport him, costing taxpayers an estimated £2 million. This despite Hamza being considered a risk to national security.

The 1948 Nationality Act which we are suffering under was introduced to bestow British nationality upon everyone within our former Empire. At the time many of these people had already gained their independence and no longer held allegiance or ties with Britain. When questioned on this treasonable Act by a concerned public, the government of the day said that it was only a token gesture and there would be no large numbers of foreign passport holders coming to live here. This of course was a blatant lie. Today it has been widened to encompass everyone black, brown or yellow, all except our kith and kin from the white dominions.

Within the past fifty years Britain has gone from being an all-white country to one, which is going towards being half black and coloured. A more rapid birth rate among non-Britons, and the recent horrific tendency of British girls to go with negroes is speeding up our demise.

We really must take hold of the situation right now, and remove from their positions of power and influence the anti-British foreigners who currently control our country.

FRONTLINE NEWS

NF Scotland have been very busy since the Local council elections in May of this year, an activity has taken place every week in Scotland since the elections and we have seen our membership rise considerably in the last 2-3 months.

Aberdeen NF held a very successful papersale at Pittodrie stadium in Aberdeen on the 23rd August. The reaction from the football fans was very encouraging, especially the comments made by the older men and women who were attending the football match (See picture page 5). We sold copies of "The Flame" and handed out over 1000 copies of our Anti-Mosque leaflet. Many thanks to all the members who took part in this activity. We shall be back there very soon to build on our very successful papersale. Further afield our smaller units in Glasgow, Dundee, Edinburgh and Ayrshire have been out leafleting in their areas on a regular basis and we have received many enquiries in the last couple of months. We are attending the Remembrance Sunday ceremony in London this year, any member who wishes to travel with us should contact us as soon as possible to avoid disappointment. Things are moving in the right direction for us all across the UK and we must carry on with the work that we have done previously. On a final note, many thanks to one of our members who has been recruiting members for the NF in Scotland on an almost weekly basis. Many thanks Chris keep up the good work, you're a credit to the party. - Dave, NF SCOTLAND

WEST LONDON NF

Since April West London NF have held no less than 30 group activities plus numerous individual efforts. We have delivered over 15,000 leaflets to homes in Chiswick, Fetham, Hammersmith , Hansworth, Bedfont, Ashford and Sanbury. We have held two papersales in Fetham, attended the St. George's Day march in Bermondsey and were present on thhe two anti-IRA demos in central London.

In June we held our first branch meeting in over 4 years, with over 45 members and supporters in attendance and we raised over £300 for branch funds.

We have a new wave of activities planned and a new edition of "West Londoner" in the pipeline.

Bicester NF

We held another anti-asylum protest in Bicester, on 27th September with support from Peterborough and Home Counties NF. We have increased our public support in the area due to the Asylum camp being given the green light by John Prescott

Wales NF

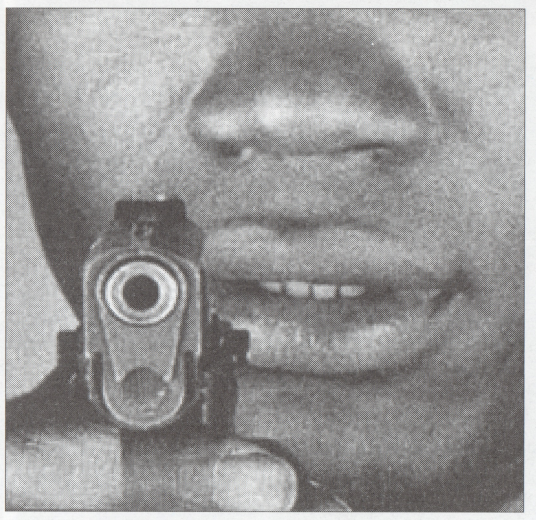
Wrexham and Swansea have seen an increase in NF activity over the last few months and is now producing a steady stream of enquiries. Our new contact number is: 07940 934202. More activities are planned for October.

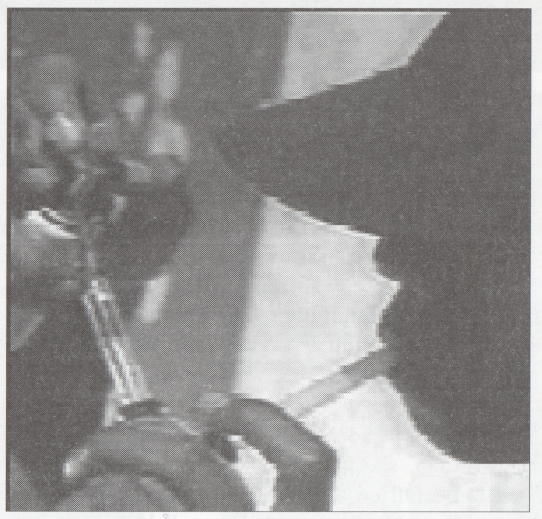
MURDER AND DRUG ABUSE ARE RISING FASTER THAN EVER

Every week national and local newspapers carry stories of murders. However, reports from our members, readers and close associates indicate that the situation is far worse than we are led to believe.

Many incidents are not reported, particularly those where the victim is white and the killer some form of immigrant. There are special police teams dealing with black-on-black killings, whereas many white deaths seem to be largely ignored. The laws forbidding the carrying of weapons in public places are only being selectively enforced.

Some years ago the government stripped legitimate British gun clubs of many of their firearms, including many precious and irreplaceable weapons that were of historical interest.





However, little was done to disarm the many blacks and Asians who carry guns and knives on the streets of our towns and cities. One can say that it is easier to police those who allow themselves to be policed, but it is the immigrants who are chiefly responsible for street shootings and stabbings. Drug abuse is now so widespread, that half of 15-year-olds have experimented with potentially lethal and brain-damaging substances. This very serious problem, which is driving many parents frantic, seems of little concern to those in power. We all have to live constantly with the fear of racially-motivated murder or drug abuse affecting us or our family. Both of these problems have been politically engineered by politicians who would describe themselves as "anti-racist". Once established, these life-threatening problems have been exacerbated by governments, and their left-wing friends in the entertainment industry. The multi-racial society, which was forced on a reluctant public is the initial cause of the problem.

The situation has been made deliberately worse by liberals and socialists who destroy our civilisation, and culture by undermining and removing all of the long-accepted rules and established authorities.

These enemies of Britain carry on their programme of destruction through a system of what they call "pushing back the boundaries". This has simply been a way, through stealth, of getting the public to accept the unacceptable. It is clear that the public has no say whatsoever in what affects our daily lives. Total power lies with a small number of unrepresentative tinpot dictators who clearly despise us and all that we stand for.

ARE ALL ALIENS ABOVE THE LAW?

We have in English law a "Representation of the Peoples Act". It was introduced in order that each candidate in a political election should be given "unhindered" an equal chance to put his manifesto to the concerned electorate. Only candidates and their agents are lawfully entitled to address political matters during the election period.

ANYONE DOING OR SAYING ANYTHING THAT IS LIKELY TO BE PREJUDICIAL TO THE OUTCOME OF THE VOTE FOR ANY CANDIDATE IS BREAKING THE LAW AND LIABLE TO ARREST.

Technically most TV and press coverage on elections, with its bias, dwelling on the main parties, and derisory comments about nationalist candidates is illegal. If this condition operated against mainstream candidates, all hell would break loose. The Christian English are just supposed to grin and bear it. We can expect no sympathy, help or understanding from so-called liberals and democrats.

The most personal, unfair and vicious attacks on patriotic candidates comes from communist organisations such as the Anti Nazi League and Socialist Workers Party. Many of their illegal operations are carried out in co-operation with the Labour Party. They often distribute deliberately inaccurate and misleading material during election periods to try to discredit nationalist candidates. The police are clearly under orders from the Home Office to allow this criminal activity to go unpunished. More recently, the established anti-British left has been working with Asians, spreading illegal smears and innuendos in a bid to use what can only be described as ballot-fixing in order to keep patriots out.

The Sunday Mirror of May 25th 2003 had a headline "Exclusive: Police Probe Race Attack Terror of Corrie Shobna" (she plays Sunita Parekh in Coronation Street). The so-called race attack amounted to two white lads calling her a "Paki bitch"as she sat in her car. By her own admission, she had helped found in Manchester a multi-ethnic theatre group which campaigned against a rival nationalist party in order to stop them gaining seats. This was a long running, orchestrated, widespread and malicious campaign. Not something that was done on the spur of the moment. No wonder she got yelled at. If British law had been enforced fairly, Corrie Shobna would have been arrested for contravening the Representation of the People Act during the election perid, and her illegal anti-British literature confiscated. She would be up in Court with the prospect of spending time in jail. If being called "Paki-Bitch" was her only punishment it is hardly likely to deter her from carrying on her anti-white communist crusade whereas being put in prison might.

ARE FARMERS, VICTIMS OF A GOVERNMENT CONSPIRACY?

Farmers have in recent times seen their incomes severely reduced. During the last few years hundreds of farmers have been forced into bankruptcy. Driven to distraction by bank officials, creditors and Inland Revenue inspectors, many more have left the land and moved to towns for work. Supermarkets pay a pittance for farm produce, which they sell at huge profits. The retail giants shop around the world for the cheapest food. British farmers have been forced to comply with new regulations which have meant greater overheads.

They can no longer compete with foreign producers who are not hampered by such stringent requirements of management. Supermarkets can now dictate the price they will pay for goods and where they will buy. This means they decide which farmers will stay in business.

Farmers have been the losers for keeping faith with the National Farmers Union and the Conservative Party. The NFU is of no use, as many farmers have only just recently come to realise. Unions are only ever formed with the intent of advancing the cause of communism. While Ben Gill has been president of the NFU, farm incomes have fallen dramatically (60 per cent in the past six years). It's during this period that most of the bankruptcies and suicides have taken place. Those of us who understand the aims of our treacherous politicians know that the demise of our farming industry is exactly what they've wanted. It therefore came as no surprise when Ben Gill was awarded a knighthood, no doubt for making his political masters' dreams come true.

Some of the protesters on the "Countryside alliance Demo" in which the NF took part.

Farmers did not need a union. What they required is a practical marketing network. Farmers' markets are a good idea and deserve our support, but they have lost so much ground to the superstores that it will be an uphill battle to win back customers. It is vital that Britain remain as near self-sufficient in food production as possible. Therefore, we must rise to the challenge. Farmers may have to link up with other retailers and manufacturers and set up warehouses on the edge of towns, in a similar fashion to the superstores which sell everything.

It was Edward Heath's Conservative government which brought about the demise of the British farming industry. Under the advice of Lord Rothschild, the hapless Prime Minister abolished Retail Price Maintenance and signed the Treaty of Rome. The abolition of Retail Price Maintenence allowed the wealthy super-store owners to buy in bulk and sell cheap. This change spelt the death of thousands of family businesses located in both country and towns.

The EU, which was introduced as the EEC by Edward Heath has been made more formidable and imposing by each Conservative government. Every section of the British nation, and farmers in particular, has suffered severely by our involvement with the rising socialist super-state.

This monster which is gradually taking away our freedoms is doing its utmost to turn Britain into what it terms a "post industrial and food reliant nation".

Under such conditions our new EU, masters hope we will be forced to accept an unacceptable tyranny.

LIVING IN FEAR

The government's excuse for allowing the likes of former Taliban rebel Wali Khan Ahmadzai to live in Britain at our expense is that he would live in fear in his own country.

There are many Britons living in fear in their own homeland. It is not only old-age-pensioners and young mothers with children who are frightened to walk through alien ghettoes, many young able-bodied males have been stabbed to death on the streets for no other reason than that they were white. Women live in fear of being raped by the hordes of male asylum-seekers who spend much of their day aimlessly roaming around while pensioners live in fear of being savagely attacked for the few pounds they may be carrying.

Most parents live in fear of their child getting hooked on drugs and under-achieving in left-wing-controlled schools. With road rage, the new crime of carjacking, and continual harassment by police and local authorities, even the most conscientious motorist now feels threatened while driving.

The sick and elderly have the added anxiety of their lives being put at risk by the seriously reduced standards of the NHS. A case in point is outlined in the Daily Mail and Daily Mirror of 1st July 2003 reporting misuse of the drug Cytosine given by Dr Feda Mulhem to Wayne Jowett, resulting in the 18-year-olds death because the "specialist" mistakenly ordered it to be injected into the spine instead of intravenously. We are also constantly at risk of catching one of the life threatening diseases that is prevalent among third-world immigrants.

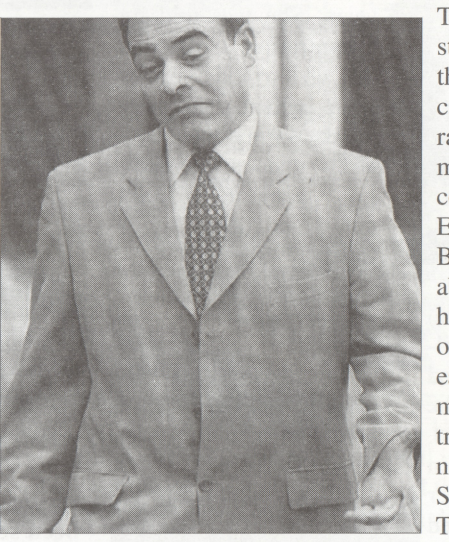
An Englishman's home used to be considered his castle, but not in post 1984 Britain as farmer Tony Martin has found to his cost. Nobody anywhere in the UK can consider themselves safe, the old saying in "the safety of ones own home" no longer applies.

Dr. Mulhem was responsible for the death of 18-year-old Wayne Jowett.

We would interpret his gesticulation as:

"So what he was only a young white lad"

This is a sentiment commonly held by many immigrants and polticians.



Across Britain young girls are being forced into drugs and prostitution by black gangs, through a form of terror which they are unable to escape or even talk about except with other unfortunate victims. Police chiefs have warned of gun crime "spreading like cancer" across Britain, while businessmen have been terrorised by a new breed of alien extortion gangs who have arrived in large numbers. It is believed that as many as 75,000 firms are being forced to pay protection money amounting to £19 billion a year. The Institute of Directors who unearthed these startling findings thought it "surprising that any UK businesses in the 21st century feel obliged to pay protection money". We do not find it at all surprising, considering that the Home Office is controlled by socialists whose main aim is to create mayhem on the streets and make life hell for the white man. Gangsters, muggers and rapists are not the only ones who terrorise the British public.

There is constant state terrorism in the form of political correctness, race laws and many new edicts coming from the EU. Many decent British law-abiding citizens have had a knock on the door in the early hours of the morning and been treated in the manner of victims of a Stalinist purge. This is under a supposedly moderate and democratic government.

Why should the imaginary fears of foreigners be given more consideration than the real fears of our own people? For many reasons mass immigration puts our own lives at risk. A fact never made clear by treacherous politicians is that thousands of our own people are dying every year as a result of the foreign invasion of our land.

It is time that the British public joined with us in our demand to be put first in our own country.

A THREAT TO WELSH CULTURE

Scotland, Wales and Ireland are sparsely populated lands. Immigrants are pouring into those parts at an alarming rate. They are being encouraged to arrive by politically-correct MPs who help them in every conceivable way. The native British in these areas have only recently begun to recognise the danger.

All these countries have in place false nationalist parties which will have to be overcome before patriotic organisations can make headway. The Scottish SNP, Plaid Cymru and the IRA are all anti-white communist groups who will rigidly oppose white nationalism and the defence of our homelands against the alien invader. None of these parties can be relied on to put an end to immigration or do anything to prevent the advance of the Socialist Eurostate.

Communist subversion has already taken place at this year's Welsh Eisteddfod. One school entered a black African anthem ("God Bless Africa"). Part of the anthem was sung in the African Xhosa language. The judges had to disallow the offering from taking a prize, and rightly so. The Welsh Eisteddfod is a showcase event that captures the essence of Wales and broadcasts it around the world. Naturally, the enemies of the Welsh chose to subvert the event for that reason.

Instead of protecting Welsh culture, Plaid Cymru are doing their best to destroy it. Talking about the African entry, Plaid Cymru culture spokesman Owen John Thomas said: "I think they need to alter the rules to make it a little more sophisticated so that it will enable choirs and people to perform quotations from Swahili or whatever." He added that the incident (the disallowing of tribal African) had introduced a sour note to what had otherwise been a pleasant occasion. There need not have been a "sour note" if the Welshness of the Eisteddfod had been upheld.

It was made quite clear by the Plaid Cymru culture spokesman that he was quite prepared to see the event turned into a multi-racial circus. His comment that Swahili or Xhosa is more sophisticated than Welsh singing at its best is an insult to every Welshman.

FAIR-WEATHER FRIENDS OR FOES?

The daily tabloids are now full of warnings and exposé's of the swamping of Britain by foreigners.

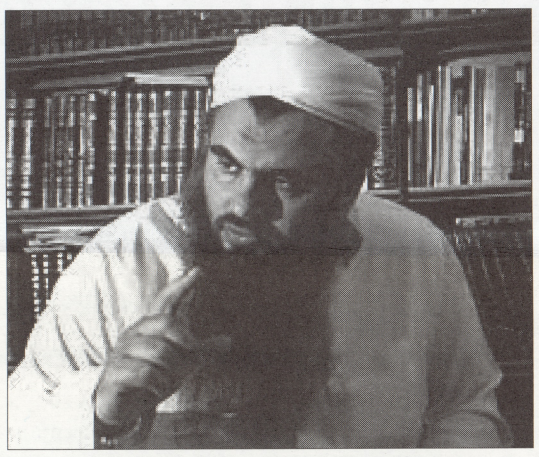
They are publishing the same kind of material that up until recently National Front members have been hauled into court as criminals for producing. Several who have published warnings of the dangers of mass immigration have received jail sentences.

The heroic Dowager Lady Birdwood who dedicated her life to the national cause was hounded to a premature death for running a campaign against mass immigration. The press were, and still are, continually scathing and contemptuous of these fine people.

Some may form the opinion that those who write for, and own, the daily newspapers have now become our allies. They clearly have not. The recent outpourings over immigration and the EU have been designed merely to release the pent-up fury within the British public.

It is clear from the venom which is still being spewed out against true patriots such as the National Front that it is the editors' and journalist's intention to keep anti-British internationalist politicians in power.

On May 21st the Daily Mail carried the headline proclaiming that Islamic leader Abu Qatada is the most evil man in Britain.



We consider those in parliament who allowed him to come to Britain and live off benefits while conspiring against us to be more of an enemy than Qatada himself.

He would be less of a threat back in his homeland, and would not have a grievance if we had not supported America in its campaign to dominate and control the Middle East.

Another give-away of the dishonesty and disparity displayed by the tabloid press has been their description British, which they applied to the Asian suicide bombers who were active in Israel during May.

Under no stretch of the imagination would the average Briton regard these as fellow countrymen and British.

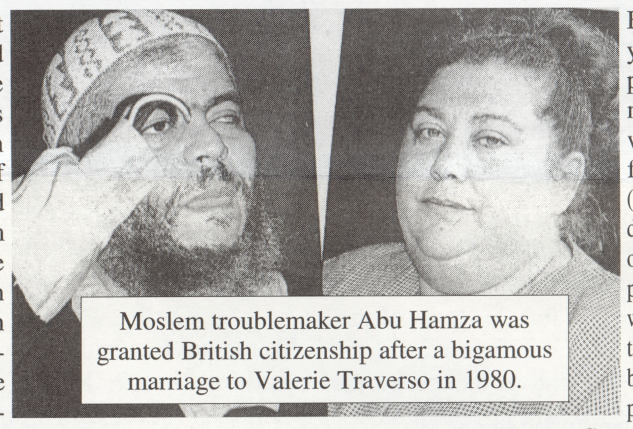
GOVERNMENT POLICY, KEEP MOSLEM FANATICS KICK OUT THE BRITISH

Egyptian Moslem fanatic Abu Hamza has used his base at Finsbury Park Mosque to incite a holy war against us. He has been allowed to freely disseminate his violent views by those in authority.

The National Front on the other hand has been denied the right to voice its peaceful opposition to the destruction of our nation, race and culture. Moslem supremacists have been egged-on in their racist war on the British by communists. These are the very same left-wingers who attack white patriots for defending our nation.



Moslem troublemaker Abu Hamza was granted British citizenship after a bigamous marriage to Valerie Traverso in 1980.

For 25 years Hamza has been living in Britain, while conspiring against us. He is currently receiving £350 per week in benefits. This is more than many in full-time employment get after paying income tax, national insurance, rates and fares out of their wage. The public would like to see this peddler of hate kicked out of Britain immediately. However, the government wants to keep him here. True Britons who have been expelled from the UK have been deported within days, or refused entry on returning to our shores. In the case of Abu Hamza, we are now informed that his fight to stay in Britain could take 9 years and cost taxpayers more than £2 million, much of which will be in the form of legal aid. (Legal aid would be denied to one of our own, earning £350 per week.) Hamza would collect a further £125,000 in benefits during this period.

Despite the Home Secretary's promise to clamp down on Moslem pro-terrorist activity, Hamza has continued giving inflammatory sermons while the police have just looked on.

In whose interest is Britain being run?

Clearly not ours!

NEW BOOKS FOR SALE

We have recently been asked by some members to start selling books again. Rather than make a long list we thought it better just to offer a small selection covering the most important political issues.

For our first choice we have selected:

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN ESTABLISHMENT

by Carroll Quigley 354p. £ 12.90.

In this book Quigley gives examples of how, in two so-called democracies, momentous decisions are made for the benefit of a few, giving no consideration to the national interest. The current illegal assault on Iraq has led many to question the abuse of power in both America and the UK, making this a topical subject.

Our second choice is:

A MEMORIAL ARCHIVE

by Captain McKilliam £10

Captain Kenneth McKilliam fought gallantly during the second-world war. Afterwards, he served in the British Colonial Service, spending some of his time teaching black children in Africa. While working in the ex-colonies after independence, he became aware that the British government was sabotaging the efforts of those trying to help the natives. He then researched into the power behind Westminster politics. What he learnt formed the basis of some of his books. Those new to patriotic politics might find his revelations quite surprising.

Captain Kenneth McKilliam (1911 - 1992) a great British patriot.

Captain McKilliam joined the National Front around 1968 and became a popular member of our party both as a defender of the British nation and a lay preacher

Our third choice is:

GREAT MONEY REFORMERS

by Leonard Wise gives a full account of our serious financial problems and how they can be overcome. £9.00

Money created as interest bearing debt eats into our personal and national wealth, as well as handing political power to the unelected. Inflation and the National Debt are two demons which affect all of us to a greater extent than most people realise.

THE GOVERNMENT-BACKED FALL OF BRITAIN – by Derek Godfrey

This year has seen the fiftieth anniversary of the Coronation. Back in 1953, just eight years after Britain had achieved a resounding victory over a seemingly invincible enemy in the second world war, it had been confidently predicted that the Queen's ascension to the throne would mark a new beginning for a country still recovering from the ravages of a long and bitterly fought conflict.

But the intervening years were to witness Britain not only relegated from the role of a great imperial power to the level of nothing much more than a bit player on the world stage, but also saddled with a succession of incompetent and spineless post-war governments who would lead our once-great country on a downward spiral of social upheaval and moral decay.

Over the past fifty years of the Queen's reign we have seen all the time-honoured institutions and values essential to the British character overturned and replaced with bogus philosophy and subterranean culture of a kind not to be tolerated in any society daring to call itself civilised. Almost every channel of the media has been mobilised in an Orwellian campaign to eradicate independent thought and create a zombie society conditioned into recognizing nothing but blind obedience to the State.

Reconditioning of thought has also been vigorously pursued throughout state education, none more so than by left-wing controlled inner-city education authorities who place more emphasis on social and "ethnic" studies than on genuine beneficial learning.

Due to our elected "leaders" abandoning old and proven methods of law enforcement in favour of the wooly-minded doctrine of a bunch of pinko-liberal moral philosophers, social conscience mongers and the like, our country which was once internationally respected for its probity and commitment to law and order has now degenerated into one of the most violent and crime-ridden societies in the developed world, with lawlessness running out of control in many areas. Elderly folk are not only fearful of venturing out onto the streets in which their families have lived for generations but also no longer feeling safe within what should be the security of their own homes.

We have also seen how the abolition of censorship has enabled the cult of "permissiveness" to degrade and defile many avenues of popular entertainment with a flood of lascivious mind-bending filth. This is hardly surprising, given the number of "gays", perverts and communists there are today within this particular industry.

However, the most traumatic and detrimental impact upon our British society has been the influx of vast multitudes of immigrants from countries of a defunct colonial empire that has transformed large areas of our major cities and towns into places where the traditional British way of life has been virtually eradicated. Dialects of the Indian sub-continent have replaced English as the principal language in many of these areas within which patriotic Britons are discouraged, if not altogether forbidden, from parading the Union flag and other emblems characteristic of the British nation, lest it provoke hostility from communities whose allegiances lie not with Great Britain but with countries far beyond our shores.

There are those who would have us believe that the profound changes that have occurred since the Coronation have been good for Britain and made us a more "enlightened" and outward-looking society. But as is obvious to any clear-sighted and politically-unbiased person, the last fifty years have been an epoch of dashed hopes, political betrayal and injustice.

Although the overwhelming majority of indigenous British yearn for a return to the old way of life and the reinstatement of old institutions and folkish values, there remain many of our fellow Britons who, quite wrongly see the rot as having set in so deeply as to render the situation irreversible. But nothing is definite until it happens, and the inevitable only becomes inevitable if people sit back and do nothing.

History has shown that there is nothing beyond the capabilities of a resolute people. The history of the British island race has been a long saga of snatching victory from the jaws of disaster.

If we were able to achieve victory against impossible odds fifty-eight years ago, we should have no trouble restoring normality and social justice to our society today.

All it requires is the will, which if strong enough can triumph over all adversity.

VITAL SIGNS - The Ghost of Islam in the Balkans - by Tomislav Sunic

In the historical memory of Central and Eastern European peoples the words "Muslim" and "Islam" often evoke images of terror and violence.

Derided by leftists and liberal intellectuals as "xenephobic," these negative images are still associated with the Turks and their centuries-long military incursions into the heart of Europe. Even the verbal derivatives of the word "Turk" in Slavic and Germanic languages often carry pejorative meanings. In Austrian Carintha, Turks are remembered as Renner und Brenner ("runners and fire-setters"), who, while burning their way into the alps, left terror and destruction in their wake. Far worse was the case of the Northern Italian region of Furlany, whose ransacking was depicted by the late Italian film-maker and writer Pietro Paolo Pasolini. Shortly before the Croation catastrophe on the field of Krbava in 1447, from the top of St Mark's in Venice, observers could witness the flames and smoke billowing all the way to the town of Udine. In their incendiary incursions, the Turks used the Balkan Wallachs, Albanians, and scores of marauding gypsies as front-line ethnic cleansers.

Even the recent war in the Balkans and the killing of Bosnian Muslims cannot be understood unless we take into account the centuries of Turkish terror in the Balkans. The onslaught of Islam resulted in massive transfers of populations. It was pure historical coincidence that Hungary and Croatia did not become part of the Ottoman Empire. Thanks to foreign volunteers from all parts of the Holy Roman Empire, including large numbers of Krajina Serbs and Danubian Germans, these regions still preserve their Central European and Catholic heritage. Still, it is a great shame that the role of Prince Eugene of Savoy, the liberator of Central Europe, is widely ignored in politically correct school syllabi and by the European media. After the expulsion of the Turks from the Panonian fields and the Danubian basin, the Holy Roman Empire decided to repopulate these devastated but fertile European regions with hundreds of thousands of German settlers who, until 1945, were known in Hungary and monarchic Yugoslavia as Donauschwaben. During World War11,many Danubian Germans volunteered for the Prinz Eugene Divisions of the Waffen SS, named after their patron hero. On May 18, 1945, 1,600 disarmed German legionnaires were swiftly executed by Tito's victorious Communist partisans; the rest were shipped to the zinc mines in Bor.

In monarchic and conservative circles in modern Europe, Prince Eugene remains a Christian hero. Born in France, Eugene strayed very early into the intrigues of Louis XIV's corrupt court. The French king mocked Eugene's flat nose, shrunken body, and huge head and suggested to his royal coterie that Eugene was cut out less for a military career than for the life of a village priest. Out of hatred for Louis XIV, Eugene, who originally came from the Italian-speaking Savoy, left France and offered his services to her mortal enemy: The Holy Roman Empire.

In 1683, he participated in the defense of Vienna against the Turkish siege, and in the following decades, he liberated the entire Danubian region- including Belgrade, in 1717. Thus, the armed empire halted the anti-Christian invasion and the Turkish destruction of European civilisation. Unfortunately, Eugene failed to liberate Sarajevo and to chase the Turks out of Europe for good. Battle along the Rhine forced him to pull back his troops to defend the empire against the French. The Islamic Sublime Porte maintained close ties with Catholic France, whose age-old obsession was to disrupt German-controlled access to the Black Sea via the Danube. He who controls the Danube, it is often said, controls Europe.

Despite their Asian origin, Turks absorbed many ethnic Europeans, particularly through the importation of white slaves from Turkish-occupied Central European regions to the Anatolian Peninsula. The Ottoman regime provided excellent career opportunities to young Islamicized Europeans-a development encouraged by the Turks in the Balkans and exemplified by the Bosnian Moslems. Suspicion lingers today among Catholic Croats and Orthodox Serbs in Bosnia toward the Slavik Muslim government in Sarajevo. It is entirely possible that some type of reconciliation will take place between the Serbs and Croats despite a century of mutual enmity. Such a development seems much less likely between either of these groups and the Slavic Muslims. The founding father of modern secular Turkey, Kemal Pasha Ataturk, resembled a German patriarch more than an Asian despot. His place of birth in the Balkans suggests that he was either of Slavic or Albanian descent. No insult can be worse to a Turk than to call him an "Arab." By contrast Turkey has close ties to modern Israel. After Isabella11 expelled the Jews from Spain in the 15th century, many Sephardic Jews took refuge in the vast Ottoman Empire, which encompassed not only the Balkans but a solid chunk of Arabic North Africa. The State of Israel closely cooperates with Turkey's military intelligence. Turkey's appalling human-rights record is usually overlooked, and the European Union, pressurised by the United States, must go to great lengths to accommodate the never-ending Turkish bid to enter the union.

For the United States, both Israel and Turkey are important allies in the NATO-controlled Eastern Mediterranean. Turkey is vital for access to the Central African basin, and she serves,with her powerful half-amiilion man army, as the chief arbiter of "hydropolitics," controlling the main water routes to the Middle East.

During the war in the Balkans, with the full blessing of the United States, Turkey provided covert support to Bosnian Muslims and Albanians. Turkey's memories of her lost European "glacis" are vivid, and she still longs to restore the past glory that once stretched to the doors of Vienna. Despite the prominent role of Turkish military apparatus and the high prestige of the Turkish military in public life, Turkey has been plagued for decades by the separatist Kurds, who make up approximately 15 million of Turkey's population and whose goal is secession. Turkey is often annoyed by Armenian and Greek lobbies in France and America who openly demand a public apology for the Turkish genocide of 1.5 million Armenians in 1915. Without exception, Turkey's political and intellectual class rejects any allegation of genocide. While Germany must publicly demonstrate atonement for her sins in World War II, Turkey seems light years away from apologies for her genocidal practices against Slavs and Armenians.

Over eight million Muslims live in the Balkans today, an autochthonous population that once converted to Islam, either out of opportunism or sheer terror. Well over ten million Muslims reside in the states of the European Union, mostly immigrants from North Africa and Turkey.

Germany alone boasts three million Muslims, mostly immigrant Turks and Kurds. In the United Kingdom, there are over 2.5 million Muslims, mostly immigrants from Pakistan and Arabic countries, and France has a staggering four million Muslims, mostly immigrants from North and Central Africa.

Modern liberalism preaches racial tolerance and multicultural conviviality. Yet after the terrorist strikes against the United States, and in the wake of the US bombardment of Afghanistan, the multicultural utopia is beginning to show its dark side.

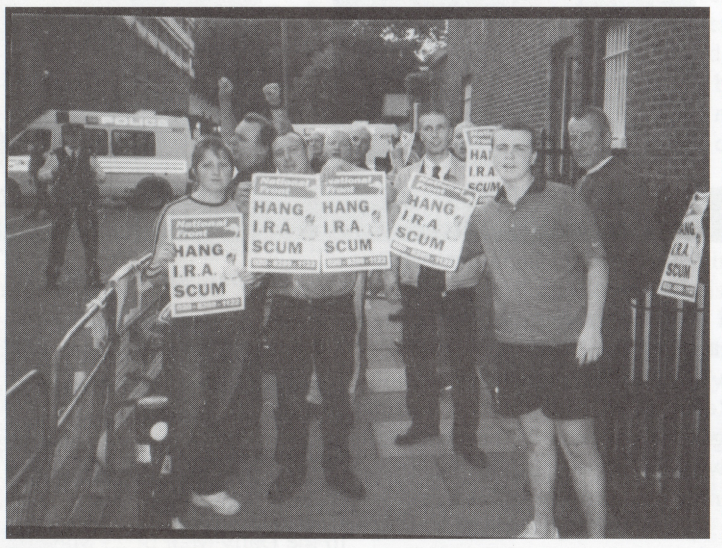
UPSET AT THE UNI by Derek Godfrey

In mounting a demonstration outside the University of London against Sinn Fien terrorist Martin McGuiness being invited to address a Left Wing gathering in the "African Studies Faculty on 7th July last. Just eighteen National Front members stirred up a hornets nest within this area of London long regarded by the Marxist / Labour left as one of their strongest citadels.



Upon realising that a National Front contingent had arrived on their doorstep the small number of students who had gathered outside soon swelled to a howling mob of almost a thousand. They were joined by the now familiar conglomeration of miscellaneous anti-social misfits, calling themselves the "Anti Nazi League" (ANaL). Much to the amusement of local bystanders, the whole affair was given something approaching a carnival atmosphere by a group of "Anti-Fascists" dancing on the street like performing monkeys to the accompaniment of what appeared to have been a hastily scratched mini orchestra. But for some strange reason, given the occasion, omitted the "Red Flag", "Internationale" and other such old Left Wing family favourites from it's repertoire.

Upon catching site of Martin McGuiness and his henchmen approaching the venue, our national activities organiser Terry Blackham broke through the police cordon in a determined attempt to confront and tell McGuiness that people who actively aspire to murder and terrorism were not welcome on the streets of London or any other British city. Terry was forcibly restrained by the police who's thankless task it was to shield an avowed enemy of the Queen and the people from public outrage. Permitting someone known to be a principle figure in a criminal organisation committed to achieving a political aim through murder and terrorism, to freely walk the streets of any British city, not to mention able to address a gathering of the people's enemies in a high profile public position. It is nothing less than an insult to the families of all those, especially the many innocent and defenceless civilians, murdered by IRA scum. It could also be described as an act of treason.

If Martin McGuiness, now a minister in the Northern Ireland Assembly, has genuinely renounced terrorism and is the democrat he claims to be, he should have no need to slink around like a rat up from the sewer protected by a bevy of bodyguards and speaking only at gatherings which he knows would be receptive to his philosophy. Were he convinced of the acceptability of his doctrine among the public at large he would be unafraid of leaving his case open to public scrutiny. The truth has always been that Sinn Fien has no intention of abandoning the "armed struggle" and, until totally destroyed once and for all' (Something we can never hope to see under our current "leadership") will never hesitate in reverting to terrorism or the threat of terrorism to exact "Danegeld" from a Prime Minister shown to be totally gutless in the face of American pressure.

This demonstration was the most recent of a series of high profile activities, which are gradually bringing the National Front back into the public eye. The credible vote polled by NF candidates (in some cases beating the Liberal Democrats and Conservatives) in council elections earlier in the year showed to certain of our rivals that we are far from being a spent force they may have predicted. Although a relatively small number of members participated in this activity it, nonetheless, caused a major stir among the far left due to our invading an area where they believed we would never dare to set foot.

It all goes to show that it is not the size of the dog that counts so much as the size of the fight within the dog.

A LAND FIT FOR HEROES?

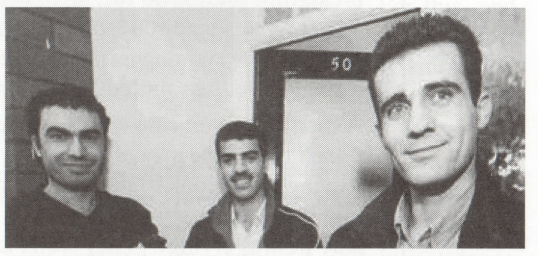
The generation who for six years faced the horrors of the Second World War were promised for their sacrifice a better tomorrow.

Today they are often left dying of neglect on hospital trolleys or being turned out of their old people's homes only to die of distress. Even the pensioners who are able to care for themselves are constantly under threat from muggers, burglars and drug addicts.

The younger generations have fared no better, and they have recently been told they will have to work well into their seventies merely to keep their heads above water. Britain is a wealthy country, but for most workers it does not feel like it. Too much money is being taken out of our pockets by what can only be described as parasitic government and its partners in crime at the EU and the World Bank.

The standard of general education within the comprehensive system has been reduced to a level where few school leavers expect to be high achievers. The leftists and aliens who run our country are deliberately installing non-whites into well-paid positions where they hold power and influence over the indigenous British. Many men between the ages of 25 and 40 are working full-time, yet cannot afford either to buy their own property or to get married and raise a family. Most of them are employed in some form of essential service work where the buying power of their wages has been severely reduced since the arrival of New Labour.

Many newly-arrived bogus refugees are clearly in a better financial position than most of our own working class. So much for Labour being the party for the working man. Although these foreigners in the main do not seem to work, they can be seen smartly dressed, driving new, expensive cars and buying houses. One immigrant is taking 2 million a year from his local council for housing foreigners who have no right to be in Britain. There is an abundance of socialist traitors working in the housing and welfare departments who are doing their utmost to arrange for foreigners to become landlords.



This is being achieved by filling the aliens' newly-acquired mortgaged properties with homeless from the council lists. Most of these people have flown half-way around the world to turn up and classify themselves as homeless.

As a consequence of Britain being run by our enemies, foreigners are given priority in housing before our own fellow-countrymen. Many luckless Britons are living on the streets in harsh conditions. If asylum seekers were placed in that position, cosmopolitan lawyers and trendy socialists would be looking for hundreds of thousands of pounds in compensation for them.

HOME OFFICE ORGANISED INVASION OF BRITAIN

Most of the foreigners currently entering Britain come from regions which have no connection with our country. Long gone is the pretence that immigrants come only due to our colonial past.

Directions are regularly given to social security staff and civil servants that can only be described as treasonable. Most civil servants now fall into the category of Immigrant, Communist members of clandestine organisations or those who are afraid to speak out for fear of losing their job and pension. Britain becomes more like a police state every day. With a quarter of the workforce now working for the government in one way or another, we are rapidly approaching the system which was used in the former Soviet Union to control the populace.

According to one social security directive regarding Iraqi Nationals: They have been granted Exceptional Leave to Enter/ Remain for 4 years. The Home Office has issued Form GV3 in lieu of a passport. The GV3 has a visa attached which states that the holder is "employment permit free" They will not be subject to the habitual residence test as they have been given Exceptional leave to remain and will be entitled to claim benefit. Afghan nationals: They have also been issued with Form GV3 and will not be subject to the habitual residence test because they have been granted Exceptional Leave to Enter.

Please note neither group are asylum seekers, nor have they been granted refugee status.

According to the Daily Mail of June 3rd 2003, asylum seekers are being promised houses within an hour of asking. Organisations housing would-be refugees have been ordered to offer accommodation within 60 minutes of a request from the National Asylum Support Service made by 4 pm on a working day - or face fines or other penalties. By last December 54,070 asylum seekers had been housed free by NASS. Details of the contract between it and housing providers are supposed to be kept strictly secret. But leaked copies of one with Adelphi Homes revealed the terms. The NASS is only one of many immigrant-run housing scams which are being operated in collusion with the government and council office staff. All over Britain, virtually every available house is being taken by foreigners, more often than not at the expense of the taxpayer.

There are fears among the public and health authorities that the hundreds of Chinese, bogus asylum seekers who come to Britain each week could spread the deadly Sars virus. There were six cases of Sars in Britain by 22nd April. Many experts believe that we are ill-prepared to combat the disease and that it is only a matter of time before there is a major outbreak in the UK.

The government is naturally unconcerned for our safety. The genocide of the white race and the formation of a world communist dictatorship are the only goals that blindly drive them.

IS BRITISH STEEL TO GO THE WAY OF AIRCRAFT AND SHIPBUILDING?

Successive governments have done their utmost to get rid of Britain's heavy industry, always careful, though to give the impression that its demise is out of their control.

Tony Blair damaged the British steel industry considerably, when he gave his support and wrote a letter on behalf of Lakshmi Mittal, in order to secure the purchase of the Sidex steel works in Romania by the Asian businessman. The £125,000 that Mittal donated to New Labour's funds was obviously more important to the well-heeled socialists than Britain's steel industry.

Tony Blair expects us to believe that he was not aware of the huge donation that Mittal made when they were all at a party hosted by Labour's fundraiser, Lord Levy.

Sidex is a company that is able to offer cheap foreign imports in competition with the ailing British steel industry.

Ispat Inland is a large American steelwork owned by Mittal. This company has urged George Bush to put tariffs on British goods. Such a move would threaten an annual £250 million of exports to America by British Steel.

Corus paid off more than 1,000 workers at Redcar and a further 2,900 job losses are likely at Teeside.

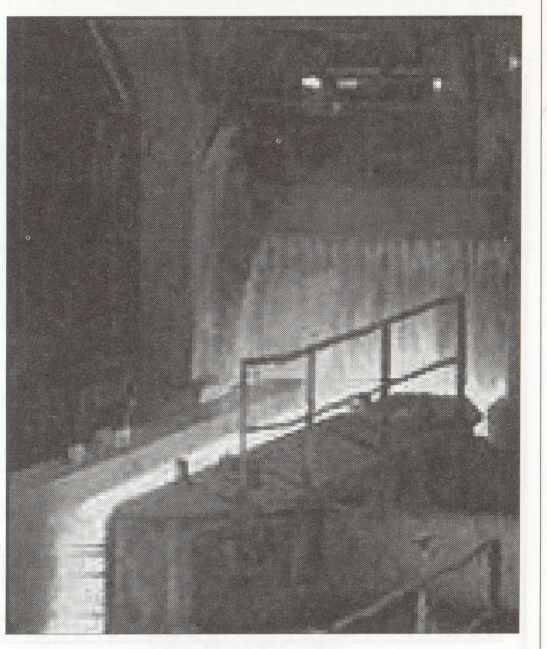
The demise of the British steel industry is due not only to a drop in the demand for steel and cheap foreign imports, but to boardroom mismanagement and parliament's lack of interest in maintaining it.

Ten years ago, during the good times British steel was making almost a £1 billion a year profit.

No provision was made for investing in the future, and now this vital industry is threatened with closure.

Indian billionaire Lakshmi Mittal is waiting like a vulture for an opportunity to buy the most lucrative parts of the British steel industry should it fail.

The BSC steel plant at Stockbridge was a specialist producer of high-grade jet-heat aerospace armour-plating material, with virtually no rivals. Many aircraft manufacturers have used the product of this British company in the manufacture of their aircraft.

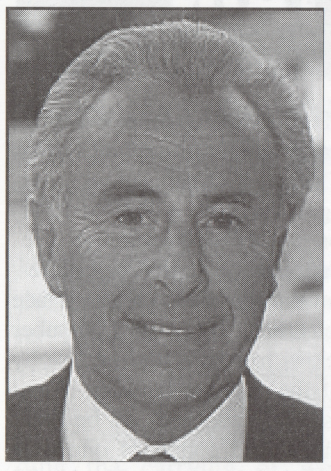


The specialised techniques developed over a long period gave the Stockbridge plant a clear advantage over many would-be competitors.

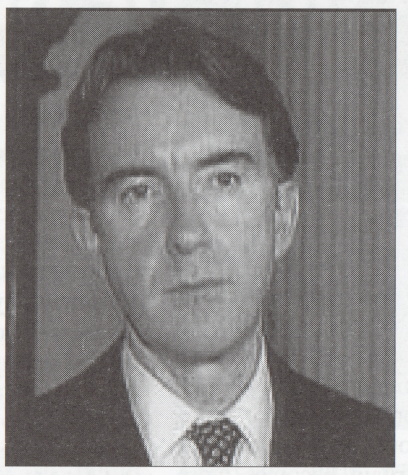
Just as the secret details of the world-beating TSR2 aircraft were handed to the Americans just before Harold Wilson's government terminated the project, so too were the secrets of aerospace armour given to the Dutch when Hoogovens Steel Corporation merged with BSC.

Such actions on the part of government are nothing short of treason.

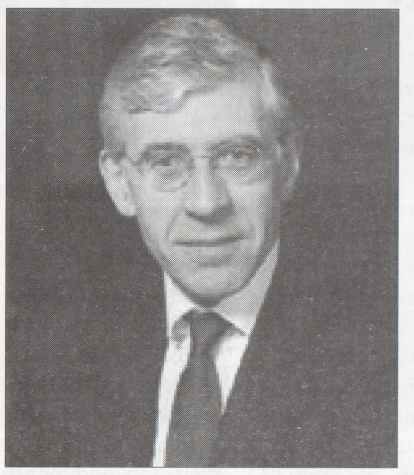
LABOUR, A PARTY OF THE WORKERS?



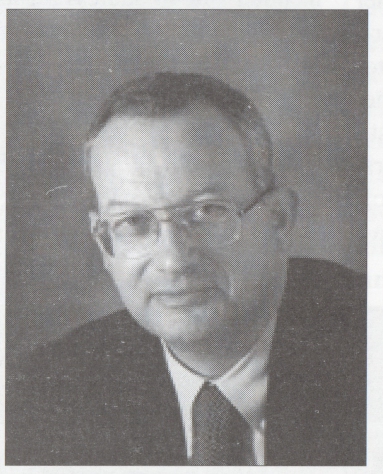
Lord Michael Levy



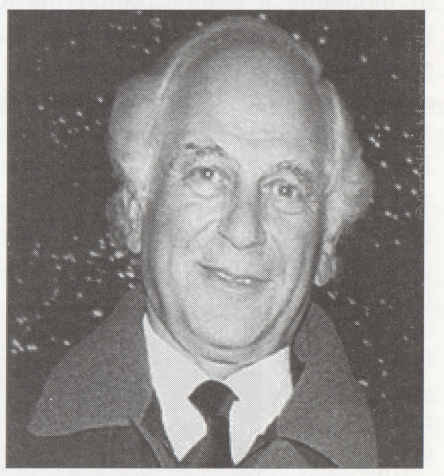
Peter Mandelson



Jack Straw



Lord David Sainsbury



Sir Evelyn de Rothschild

Lord Levy, Tony Blair's close friend and tennis partner, arranged the financing of Blair's campaign to become leader of the Labour Party. Together with the Jewish group of Peter Mandelson, Jack Straw, Lord David Sainsbury and the banker Rothschild they formed the nucleus of New Labour's political strategists

Michael Levy has close connections with the Iraeli government, where his son Daniel has worked for Prime Minister Ehud Barak as well as Yossi Beilin, Israel's Justice minister. Lord Levy has a £5 million house in Israel and is of course an Israeli citizen. He has raised millions of pounds for Israel's Labour Party as well as donating large sums of money to Israeli politicians. Lord Levy had himself appointed as Tony Blair's personal envoy to the Middle East. As chief fundraiser for the Labour Party it has been his job to foster close relations between the party and its benefactors. Many of the donations made to New Labour have been made in dishonourable circumstances which have caused the socialists numerous scandals.

David Sainsbury of the retail conglomerate has been of late the Labour party's main financial backer. Without the countless millions of pounds that he has contributed, the Communists, who call themselves Socialists would face severe financial difficulties. Lord Sainsbury, as he now is, as well as Science Minister, can be relied upon to be out of step with the views of the British public. He has spearheaded the fight to scrap the pound, as well as being the man dedicated to the introduction of GM crops. The EU, of which he is so fond, did Sainsbury a great favour when European commissioner Frits Bolkestein delivered a message to Tony Blair giving him a directive for a dramatic expansion in the quantity of GM crops to be grown in Britain.

In the Soviet Union Christianity was banned outright. In Britain the removal of Christianity has been more subtle, but no less effective. School assemblies which once gave a Christian message have all but disappeared. Religious programmes have been expunged from all TV channels. Whitsunday has been removed from our calendar. The clergy have to a large degree been replaced by Marxists. (This is why we now see many religious leaders committing acts of indecent assault on young children and having sexual encounters with their parishioners.) Many Communist teachers have banned school nativity plays, but it was Sainsbury's who first desecrated Christmas by opening some of their stores on Christmas Day.

Thinking men have always had grave concerns about both food distribution and the control of the money supply, falling into the hands of a small number of people. Whoever holds a monopoly on such necessities can hold an entire nation to ransom. The situation in Zimbabwe where Robert Mugabe is deliberately withholding food from areas where his political opponents live is a case in point. For not supporting this murderous black dictator hundreds of thousands of decent civilians are being starved to death. The "International Community" will not intervene in Zimbabwe for Mugabe is their man. He was installed as dictator by Bilderberger chief, Lord Carrington, while the latter served in Margaret Thatcher's government. During the second world war, Jewish grocers, including Sainsbury and Marks and Spencers remained, trading while most Christian grocers boarded up their shops and went off to war. With no competition, their profits soared. The Sieff, family who owned Marks and Spencers had the lucrative contract to supply the armed forces with food for the duration of the war. Having gained a financial advantage, these store giants were given further impetus for expansion when Retail Price Maintenence was removed. This gave a distinct advantage to these behemots who were then able to buy in bulk at discount rates and sell cheap. As a result of this new unfair trading, thousands of Christian family businesses were forced into bankruptcy.

The abolition of Retail Price Maintence and the signing of the Treaty of Rome which took us into the EEC were decisions taken by Edward Heath while he was taking advice from a think-tank led by Rothschilds. (Whenever you look into political changes which have been a disaster for the white man, it is interesting to note how often the names Rothschild, Rockerfeller, Oppenheimer and Kissinger come into the frame.)

Mass communication through television and cinema, as well as education in this country has for some time been monopolised by Communists. As a result, the British nation is suffering social chaos and underachievement, as well as attacks both physical and intellectual upon our culture and religion. Due to developments that have taken place during the past forty years, our very existence as a race and nation has been put in jeopardy.

Other wealthy Jews who have funded the Labour Party include the Polish publisher who went on to become Lord Hamlyn. He gave more than £2 million towards Labour's past general election fund. Multi-millionaires, David Goldman, Chairman of the Sage group, Sir Emmanuel Kaye, Alex Bernstein, ex-head of Granada TV and Bob Gavron and others who have done likewise.

One may wonder how Britain got dragged into the assault on Iraq, why foreigners are put before Britons, why one is prosecuted for calling oneself English or persecuted for flying our national flag? All should become clear when you look at who is running our country.

In the Daily Mail of 23 May, 02 It was reported that Levy was "believed to have negotiated the £125,000 from Indian steel tycoon Lakshmi Mittal, whose bid for the Romanian steelworks was later endorsed by Tony Blair." In the same report Levy was accused of "playing a crucial part in the Hinduja brother's £1 million donation to the Dome. This was followed for the cash for passport scandal after which Peter Mandelson was forced to resign. Levy himself has been under scrutiny on a number of occasions. He was paid up to £250,000 as a consultant for Australian property developers Westfield, which was looking for ministers' support to expand their interest in British shopping centres.

Mark Seddon of the Labour Party's own national executive committee voiced concerns over who controlled the purse strings of the Labour Party. He said, " If we want to reassure the public we have to go for more independent-minded people."

As you would expect communists including Labour chairman Charles Clarke, David Triesman and trade unionist Margaret Prosser came to the defence of the multi-millionaire cartel.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Flame - PO Box 274, Hemel Hempstead, Herts. HP3 9EQ

Dear Sir,

I read with interest, the campaign against pensioner Pat Booth, a resident of Tinsley in Sheffield, and how she has suffered at the hands of local Asian thugs (Issue 21).

I was working in the local infants school in Tinsley a couple of months ago and would like to report two incidents that occurred there and worried me greatly. An ethnic child of no more than 7 or 8 years old approached me during the children's' break-time and asked me, "Are you a Muslim or a Christian?" A Christian of course. Why? At this the little lad started booing and began firing an imaginary gun with his hands before running away. A teacher saw this and how shocked I was at the boy's response, yet just smiled and said nothing to me or the child.

A month later on entering the same school I noticed a little white boy crying. I mentioned this to the school Secretary, who said she would deal with it. However on leaving the school 10 minutes later, I found the same boy alone, still in tears! I asked him if the Secretary had dealt with him. He said that she hadn't, so I then asked him why he was crying? "They won't let me play with them because I'm different!" was his solemn reply. I was horrified and led the boy back into the office. Unfortunately, the only reply I got was that this particular child was always "whingeing". I didn't take it any further, but in hindsight wish I'd gone to talk to the Head because can you imagine the outcry, if in these two situations, the shoe had been on the other foot, so to speak?

I never considered myself a "racist" and always thought of the National Front as "extreme". Having read the Spring issue of Flame, in future I will not only be subscribing, but contributing on a regular basis. I apologise for doubting your credentials in the past, because you only speak the truth as you see it, and not with the utter bias fed to us by the national media. Justice works both ways and somehow things have gone drastically full circle. It is simply time that the indigenous population of this country woke up and spoke up, before it is too late.

K.Barwise. Lincolnshire.

MIND CONTROL AND MANIPULATION
(Or, How The Wishes Of The Majority Get Ignored)

There have always been ambitious people who have got close to political leaders in order to put into effect their own agenda. For the protection of the mass populace, there are some people who should be kept at a distance from those in power. The names of Robert Maxwell, Armand Hammer, Henry Kissinger and members of the Rothschild family spring immediately to mind.

The Jewesses Carole and Sylvia Caplin (Above) have certainly had an influence on both Cherie and Tony Blair. Maybe they have not dictated any political decisions taken by the Blairs, but it seems they have been in a position to do so.

Cherie Booth has an unnatural, perverse and extreme left-wing political outlook. One may wonder where such a strange anti-British stance was acquired. Certainly, through a feeling of self doubt, the Lady at number 10 has put herself under the control of those who offer perceived wisdom. Among those who have had access to the minds of the Prime Minister and his wife is Miss Carole Caplan. She was involved in a mind- bending cult called Exegesis which was even condemned in our "progressive" parliament as profoundly wrong. Her mother, Sylvia, who is also a close friend of the Blairs, is a self-appointed medium. She claims to use" energy-channelling rocks" to find answers to questions. Cherie has sought her advice on numerous issues, and for some time was sending faxes which ran to six pages.

It has been reported that for some time the Prime Minister's wife was paying the medium to seek answers to her problems. This involved consulting the unpredictable, and often dangerous, spirit world for advice. Going one stage further, Cherie has delved into mysticim herself. Miss Sue Harris, a former business partner of Miss Caplan, claimed that Mrs Blair had visited a witchcraft specialist called Chloe Asprey. All kinds of thoughts and suggestions could be put into the mind of Cherie Blair - thoughts that she would later consider to be her own. It is disconcerting that the Prime Minister's wife considers Carole Caplan to be "indispensable." Caplan seems to be acquainted with other senior politicians including the Conservative "closet socialist," Michael Heseltine, in whose magazine, "Men Only," she posed for the front cover.

Even some parliamentarians have described Miss Caplan as Cherie's Rasputin. We have witnessed many close associations formed between mystics and politicians where the demands of a single determined individual has overridden the needs and well-being of the public.

The extreme views held by Mrs Blair seem to predate her meeting with the Caplans. However there have probably been others who have had the opportunity to influence her thoughts. Tony Blair displays all of the symptoms of one under mind control. He acts as though his life depends on a mission upon which he has been engaged, yet he is unable to argue his case or understand the full implications of his actions. On issues such as the assault on Iraq, the flooding of Britain by foreigners, the threat posed by the EU and the dismantling of our constitution Blair acts like a man possessed. There is no rationality, reasoning or comprehension behind his actions, merely blind destruction. The Blairs attended Oxford university where many an unfortunate transformation has taken place. So many normal youngsters went to Oxford and came out raving anti-British communists; this so-called seat of learning should be investigated.

Despite the Cheriegate affair and the possibility of an embarrassing investigation by the Inland Revenue into the purchase of property, the Blairs seem incapable of distancing themselves from the Caplans. Tony Blair is supposed to be an astute man of the world. If this is the case, why did Cherie Blair use a conman friend of Carole Caplan to make the choice of a property for investment. We have used this example to demonstrate how people with the aid of spiritualism can gain control over people. There are far more sinister people than the Caplans exercising mind control over senior politicians.

The reader may now have drawn the conclusion that our elected national leaders are sometimes led off-course by ambitious manipulative mind-benders. In reality, the situation is far worse. It is the unelected mind-benders whose agenda is put into action. Political nonentities such as John Major, Tony Blair, Edward Heath and Harold Wilson are merely unscrupulous fools who have been selected by the Bilderbergers to act as enforcers for those who really run our country. You would expect a national leader to be a man of vision and strong character who over many years has gained the support of his people. In the case of Major and Blair, when they took up the position of Prime Minister, people were asking John Who? Tony Who? These were purported to be our national leaders.

Those who have shown any signs of leadership such as A.K.Chesterton, Enoch Powell, Andrew Fountaine, Sir Oswald Mosely and the Dowager Lady Birdwood have all been sidelined and removed from the public gaze by the powerful political controllers whose own names are seldom brought to the public's attention.

MARCUS GARVEY

Marcus Moziah Garvey (1887-1940) migrated to the USA from his native Jamaica at the age of 29. By 1916 he had become the idol of the black masses in America, the Caribbean and Latin America, where under his leadership branches of the "Universal Negro Improvement Association" (UNIA) were formed. A dynamic orator and fluent writer, Garvey was also a master of pageantry. But his charisma alone cannot explain the remarkable response he obtained from black America. The attraction can be found in his policies, for Marcus Garvey was one of the first black racial nationalists. Unlike the communist black power movements, which have been used to bring down the white man, Garvey's idea was merely to improve the conditions and ability of his fellow blacks.

Like many black leaders Marcus Garvey was first attracted to left-wing movements. He worked in close alliance with the Communists and Socialists in the "Afro-American Liberty League". Garvey did not confine his interest to social and economic problems, he also understood and gave expression to the spiritual needs of American blacks in their striving for racial recognition. After being away from their homeland for many years, they had to a great extent lost their culture and identity. Garvey tried to engender a feeling of pride in their origins and to give the black community racial self respect.

At a magnificent UNIA conference in New York in 1920, the delegates unanimously appointed themselves representatives of Africa, even though there was not one genuine African name among the 122 signatories to the declaration. When the League of Nations was discussing the future of Germany's African colonies after the First World War, Garvey proposed that instead of the colonies being granted self-government, the mandate to govern them should be granted to the UNIA.
Garvey's racialist, separationist ideas were finally developed when he wrote in 1923, "Hitherto the other negro movements (with the exception of the movement led by Booker.T. Washington) sought to teach the negro to aspire to social equality with the whites, meaning thereby the right to inter-marry and fraternise in every social way. Still some negro organisations continue to preach this race-destroying doctrine, added to a programme of political agitation and aggression."... "The time is opportune to regulate the relationship between both races. Let the negro have a country of his own. Help him to return to his original home, Africa, and there give him the opportunity to climb from the lowest to the highest positions in a state of his own."... "We of the UNIA cede to the white man the right to do as he pleases in his own country, and that is why we believe in not making any trouble when he says that "America is a white man's country."

In 1922 Garvey paid a visit to the Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan in Georgia. The white racialists were natural allies for Garvey. Their open white racialism helped to develop the race consciousness of American blacks and to stimulate interest in the UNIA-sponsered movement for repatriation to Africa.

In message dated October 28,1925 Garvey, introduced a speaker from the Anglo-Saxon Clubs of America the northern KKK counterpart) whom he had invited to speak at Liberty Hall: "Mr Powell and his organisation sympathise with us even as we sympathise with them. I feel and believe that we should work together for the purpose of bringing about the ideal sought the purification of the races, their autonomous separation and the unbridled freedom of self-development and self-expression."

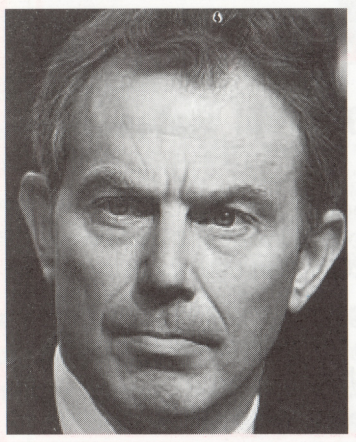
Garvey not only rejected the idea of a political alliance with white leftists, but preferred an understanding with white employers. However, the US big business establishment were not keen on allowing Garvey to propagate this racialist ideal. In 1925 he was arrested on a trumped-up charge and sentenced to five years imprisonment. Garvey's reaction was to move even further to the right. He proclaimed that "Capitalism is necessary to the progress of the world ... but there should be a limit to the individual or corporate use or control of it. All control, use and investment of money should be the prerogative of the State with the concurrent authority of the people." After his prison term, Garvey was deported to Jamaica, where he endeavoured to resurrect the UNIA.

Deprived of his usual source of funds, Garvey did not manage to make much impact, although he was able to produce a newspaper, The Blackman, and he also entered local municipal politics. The Blackman became a daily paper and was superseded by the New Jamaican in 1932. By 1934 his career was faltering. His presses were seized by creditors, and Garvey suffered a severe setback. Nevertheless he undertook several speaking tours in Canada and South America. It was for Garvey a heroic last stand. His fortunes continued to decline, his magazine folded yet again, and his health was ailing. His family returned to Jamaica, and Garvey died alone in London on June 10th 1940.

Editor's comment. Garvey held the key to black success and an end to racial strife. Logic would indicate that Garvey's sensible and peaceful ideas would win the battle for minds. For the past hundred years or more, those with money have controlled the thinking of the masses. Morality, logic, fair play and self-worth have played no part in the muddled thinking of the majority. Degeneracy caused by multi-racialism and the irreligious system of financial usury are two vital factors which hold the masses in blind obedience to their accursed masters. We should support true nationalists in every country in order to overcome our common foe, the Internationalists.

A SLEEP-WALKING PUSHOVER

Tony Blair had been made to look a fool several times when he was confronted by members of the public demanding answers to specific questions on the NHS and other public services. This embarrassing situation came to a head when the Prime Minister was blasted for his interminable cheek at a Women's Institute meeting. In a panic, Tony Blair turned to Bill Clinton for advice.
A leaked Downing Street memo, written by Phillip Gould while on a visit to the White House, revealed how the Prime Minister took lessons from the US president, on ways how to outwit the media and crush the opposition.



A very disturbing aspect of this control that Clinton had over Blair was the fact that the President in turn was already fascinated by a Jewish subversive called Michael Lerner.

Lerner was the leader of a Marxist organisation in the 1970's. As a junior professor, he was the organiser of the ultra left-wing Seattle Liberation Front. This body was described by the Attorney General as being indistinguishable from Fascism and Marxism. Lerner had an indictment against him for a violent assault on a US federal courthouse in Seattle. This mind-manipulator also ran an obscure leftwing magazine called Tikkun. It had 40,000 subscribers throughout America. Bill and Hilary Clinton became enthusiastic followers of this eccentric cult, which was described as being a Jewish heresy that mixes Old Testament with medieval cabbala mysticism and a high proportion of 1960's university marxism.

Lerner had an anti-marriage agendum to his manifesto. He once had a wedding cake with the words "Smash Monogamy" iced upon it. He talks about class war and the "sins of living in a racist society". He also goes on at length in his communist-style manifesto, about society letting down gays and lesbians. Many Americans have been strongly critical of Tikkun's teachings. They accuse Lerner and his disciples of tearing down the pillars of traditional society and creating social mayhem. This unhealthy Tikkun cult gripped the imaginations of the Clintons who claimed that they looked to it for inspiration. Bill Clinton wrote Lerner a letter in 1998 saying, "You have clarified my own thinking." Hilary Clinton used Lerner's ideas for her crusade to "feminise America." Bill Clinton is a Bilderberger, which is why, although now out of office, he still struts the world political stage. He recently took it upon himself to assist in the sell-out of Northern Ireland. Tony Blair seems no less mesmerized by the criminal Bush regime, than he was of the awful Clintons. There are many thousands like Michael Lerner, who implant destructive, politically correct ideas into the minds of both those who rule and those who influence society.

Due to a constant attack on the virtuous, we have reached a point where the moral and the good are made to feel like outcasts.

OUR COLLECTIVE RESPONSIBILITY

Our forefathers have often had to take up arms to defend our nation. Never before has a generation faced the terrifying prospect of a total wipe-out of our people. It should be clear by now that the obliteration of the white race and the destruction of our culture and religion are the uppermost thoughts in the minds of those who control our politics.

There will be many reading this article who could, by way of financial support, help change the direction of British politics and avert the genocide of our nation. We need money, not only to stop the threat posed by mass immigration, but also to terminate the rapidly-approaching menace of a European socialist superstate.

We British are rapidly becoming a downtrodden, dispossessed people in our own land. If we are to survive as a nation, and our children to live in a civilised Britain, we need to take firm action now. The next two decades will decide if we are to survive as a race, while the Eurostate needs to be stopped in its tracks right now.

There are many in the National Front who are willing to put themselves in the front line. We do not need guns and bullets, simply money. We cannot fight without money any more than the army can without weapons. In our circumstances, the pen is mightier than the sword - we desperately need financial backing. Giving financially, your gesture will be appreciated by future generations. If we fail, there will be no more future generations. If you are not in a position to make a large donation, whatever you can give will help the cause. It is also possible to make the National Front a beneficiary in your will.

PARLIAMENT THREATENS OUR CHILDREN'S WELFARE

Successive governments over recent years could not have done more to corrupt our children, ruin their education and put their lives at risk.

New Labour in particular has given a new-found confidence to sexual deviants to the point where these once-disturbed people, who were quiet and timid, are now vociferous, bold and physically confident.

These changes have resulted in a spate of paedophile attacks on children in the form of abductions, rape and murder. The police have been deluged with so many cases of paedophile activity that they cannot cope. This appalling situation is allowing many hundreds of suspects to escape prosecution. There are 110,000 perverts anonymously roaming the streets of Britain, each one posing a potential threat to our children. Today every parent lives in fear for their offspring's safety. The Children have lost their innocence, freedom to roam and explore, as well as losing confidence in strangers.

Thanks to a government open invitation to the inhabitants of the third-world, incurable TB and AIDS have become serious problems. There is also a risk of the life-threatening SARS disease breaking out at any time. With 16,000 visitors a week flying in from SARS infected countries you would expect a responsible government to take action to safeguard the public.

We clearly do not have a responsible government. There are so many third-world travellers visiting and settling in Britain that New Labour now deem it necessary to build yet another airport to accommodate them. Our children, who spend much of their day in contact with immigrants, are most at risk from catching life-threatening diseases which have been brought in by these people.:

Illness itself is not the only danger facing the young. Hardly a week goes by without us hearing reports of a baby or young child dying as a result of mistakes that have been made by members of the run-down National Health Service. Many parents are also worried about the safety of the MMR vaccine and would rather their child was given separate jabs. Most of those who are advising the government on which vaccine to use, are endorsing the triple dose. What is worrying is that many of these advisers are not impartial, for they have connections with drug companies.

Gender-bending poisonous chemicals are posing a new threat to children. Some species of birds and fish have been affected both physically and mentally by PCBs and dioxins. Polar bears have been found that have both both male and female sex organs. This is believed to be caused by man-made toxins that have built up in the food chain. It is only recently that sexual behaviour changes have been noticed in children. The World Health Organisation is monitoring developments and believes that long-term effects of gender-bending chemicals on human health and fertility could be a nightmare waiting to unfold. Possibly the sudden rise in the number of homosexuals and people looking for sex-change operations is due to the increased use of chemicals in food and manufacturing. The large multinational corporations, who produce much of our food, as well as the drug companies, exert an enormous influence over governments. While EU bureaucrats and senior politicians are forever bringing in crippling legislation for tradesmen and small businesses, they seldom clamp down on dangerous malpractices carried out by large corporations.

Young children today, are expected to cope with many life-threatening situations, which never existed for former generations. Drug abuse is now widespread on estates throughout the UK. How can a ten-year-old refuse to get involved, when surrounded by a group of thirteen-to- fifteen-year-olds intimidating him? Can you imagine the difficulty for a fifteen-year-old girl not wanting to be an outsider, of saying No to her drug-taking peers? Many parents who have taken on the drug pushers have been attacked and sometimes killed for their trouble. It is clear in many areas that the authorities leave the public deliberately at the mercy of the drug barons.

Melanie Philips, writing for the Daily Mail of January 14th 2003, disclosed that the former deputy drug czar, Mike Trace, who had been engaged in a role by Britain, Europe and the United Nations to combat drugs abuse, was in fact behind a co-ordinated international effort to disband the world's anti-drug laws by stealth. The influence of this pro-drug lobby was seen, when 108 MEPs signed a petition to abandon the conventions at present in place and legalise drugs.

Those who want to spread the habit of drug-abuse are attempting to manipulate public opinion and government ministers in a bid to negate opposition. At the centre of this propaganda war is Mike Trace. The British part of his operation is being partly financed by the billionaire financier George Soros.

Parliament itself must take most of the blame for introducing into Britain the life and health- threatening problem of drug abuse. It is successive governments' insistence on creating a multi-racial society that has led to Africans, Asians and Orientals bringing in with them their deadly habit.

Goverment directives to reclassify drugs and downplay their effects have created a climate where youngsters feel they have been given a green light. There have been situations where police officers have been given orders to stand by, idly watching drug dealers sell their lethal merchandise. Parliament by its actions is endorsing the use of drugs. The law generally either gives lenient sentences to drug pushers or turns a blind eye. The government is viewed as soft on criminals. This calculated and perverse attitude has brought to our cities some of the world's most ruthless dealers.

What chance is there for our naive and inexperienced children, up against such well-organised and professional villains?

For this reason alone, we need to get rid of all of those in Parliament who betray both us and our children.
